Christian - Jew Rites Coincide

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Christians began their annual observance of Holy Week Sunday as Jews by coincidence were preparing for their annual celebration of Passover, commencing tonight.

Pope Paul VI blessed palm branches in the Sistine Chapel and said Mass Sunday before 10,000 persons in St. Peter's Basilica. The Palm Sunday rites marked the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem five days before his Crucifixion.

The Pope distributed the palms to 21 cardinals, then put on a red cape and a bishop's miter for the procession through the basilica to the main altar for Mass.

"Today, as before," the pontiff said in a sermon, "the people are invited to choose between those who love Christ as the son of God and those who do not."

Addressing thousands of youths in the audience, he added: "You, what do you say? Your presence here is an answer. You have chosen Christ."

Emphasizing the importance of young persons in modern times, the Pope warned: "There is the danger that they will become superficial, that they will become skeptics, cynics who have no respect for any values and go through life like loafers and anarchists."

After the procession and Mass, which lasted two hours, the pontiff appeared at his apartment window to bless 20,000 persons standing in warm sunshine in St. Peter's Square.

Later Holy Week ceremonies in Christian churches will focus on the Holy Thursday observance of the Last Supper and on the mournful rites of Good Friday, recalling the Crucifixion. The theme of mourning will be succeeded next Sunday by Easter rejoicing.

In Jewish homes around the world, Passover week begins at sundown today. Tradition calls for the youngest member of the households to ask the ancient question: "Why is this night different from all others?"

The oldest man in the family replies with the story of Moses Egyptian bondage into the leading the Israelites from Promised Land.

At the ceremonial seder meal tonight, and throughout the week, Jews eat matzo, or unleavened bread, as a reminder that the fleeing Israelites had time only to prepare unleavened loaves sun-baked on rocks.

The holiday is called Passover because, in the final miracle in Egypt, God killed the oldest children of the Egyptians but passed over the homes of the Israelites.

The date of Passover is determined by the old Hebrew calendar. Its simultaneous observance with Holy Week will not take place again for eight years.

Once Around Roundtown

CIRCLEVILLE Police found two very young children roaming the streets Sunday morning at an early (or late) hour. The youngsters, their combined age was only five, had been put to bed by a babysitter.

But when the babysitter went to bed, they decided to take in the sights of the south side of Circleville.

Police picked up the pair shortly after 12:30 a. m. and took them to an uncle's house, where they stayed until their parents came home. Police report the mother and the baby-sitter were more than a little worried when they found the little boy and girl missing.

The Police had no little problem in determining who the youngsters were. "They weren't talking without a lawyer present," Patrolmen Jack Mills and Larry Pontious said.

THE ecumenical spirit reigned in Circleville on Palm Sunday in spite of a wet, dreary day.

Over 175 persons braved the elements yesterday and attended a recital, which began at St. Philip's Episcopal Church, given by John Morehen, an Englishman and Fellow of the Royal College of Organists. The recital began at St. Philip's, but

U.S. Assets Set At $350 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest official guess is that the federal government has about $350 billion worth of assorted monuments, buildings, land, cash, gold, silver and other assets.

The estimate Budget Director Charles L. Schultz gave the House Appropriations Committee is some $25 billion above the current national debt. Schultz stressed the estimate was just a guess, adding: "How does one value this building (the capitol) or how does one value the Washington Monument?"

In testimony released Sunday night, Schultz said the government owned 766 million acres of land as of June 1965.

REMNANTS OF CHU PONG ACTION — A wounded North Vietnamese soldier is carried past the smoldering wreckage of a downed helicopter in the Chu Pong Mountain area by 1st Cavalry trooper Sgt. Daniel Jack, Buford, Ohio. It was in this area that four HUIB armed helicopters and a huge Chinook helicopter were shot down during action between a 1st Cavalry unit and a North Vietnamese regiment.

Trains Moving Again As Rail Strike Ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trains began to roll today at the end of a firemen's strike on eight railroads, and a federal judge lifted the threat of $510,000-a-day fines against the union and its leader.

At the suggestion of railroads, District Judge Alexander Holtzoff vacated an order calling on the union to show cause why the heavy penalty should not be levied.

In ending the four-day strike which partly paralyzed industry and commuter service and cost tens of millions of dollars, the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen acted under the threat of the fines for contempt of court, and under heavy pressure from President Johnson.

The union won nothing tangible, though its president, H. E. Gilbert, contended collective bargaining was vindicated and that the roads were pledged not to take reprisals against strikers, or other union men who refused to cross picket lines.

Sunday night the judge had ordered the union to show cause why it should not be fined $500,000 a day and its president, Gilbert, $10,000 a day. The judge acted to increase fines he had previously imposed of $25,000 a day against the union and $2,500 a day against Gilbert, effective at noon Sunday, unless the strikers had returned to work.

Sore Spots In Idle List Are Noted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation report released Saturday on 22 Ohio counties shows several sore spots in the state's employment picture.

Among the 22 counties, not grouped geographically, are many in the Appalachian area. The report listed February unemployment rates, which were as high as 16.3 per cent.

Adams County had the 16.3 per cent rate, followed by Clermont County, 15.1 per cent, and Pike County, 14.9 per cent.

However, the 22 counties as a group, had a February unemployment rate 2.4 per cent lower than in February 1964, the report said. The aggregate rate was 4.5 per cent this February, the BUC said.

Other county unemployment rates for February 1966:

Athens 4.8; Auglaize 2.6; Brown 9.2; Hamilton 3.2; Harrison 3.5; Hocking 10.9; Jackson 9.3; Madison 5.4; Mercer 2.9; Morgan 5.4; Muskingum 5.1; Perry 8.1; Ross 6.1; Sandusky 3.9; Scioto 8.9; Tuscarawas 4.9; Union 4.7; Vinton 7.1; and Warren 11.6.

after Gilbert's noon statement that he would end the strike if no reprisals were promised, railroad attorneys went to Holtzoff's home and the judge ordered the union to show cause why the fines should not be raised to $500,000 and $10,000 a day.

The end of the strike came 12 hours after Johnson told Gilbert "the nation's interest and respect for our courts require your immediate compliance to-day with the district court order."

But the union credited Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz with helping wrap up no reprisals pledges from the final two railroads — the Central of Georgia and the Seaboard Air Line — finally ending the walkout. The firemen had refused to go back on any railroad until all eight made such pledges.

The other struck lines — in addition to the Illinois Central — were the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Grand Trunk Western, Boston & Maine and the Pennsylvania Railroad west of Harrisburg, Pa.

New Indonesian Regime Plans To Return to U.N.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Foreign Minister Adam Malik said today the new Indonesian government will return to the United Nations and seek to improve relations with the United States. The apparent object is aid for the founding economy.

Malik told a news conference that Indonesia's return to the United Nations would "depend on many questions." He did not elaborate.

President Sukarno defiantly announced Jan. 7, 1965, that Indonesia was walking out of the world organization because Malaysia — which Sukarno has vowed to crush — had been elected to the Security Council.

Malik, who replaced pro-Peking Foreign Minister Subandrio last month, said the new government led by Lt. Gen. Suharto would return Indonesia to its traditional foreign policy. This was taken to mean a more neutral course of action.

Malik pointed to the country's near-bankrupt economy in emphasizing the need for improved foreign relations. He said in a reply to a question that relations with the United States have not always been good, but the government would do its best to improve them soon. "We will overcome difficulties existing now," he added.

The foreign minister said there would be no change in the country's attitude toward Red China, but added: "If Peking is not satisfied with our new policy, it is, of course, not our business."

He said Indonesia would continue its undeclared war with Malaysia but would "always be open for peaceful settlement." Malik told newsmen Sunday Indonesia would reduce its military confrontation with Malaysia once peace talks began.

Sultan Hamengku Buwono IX, deputy premier for economic affairs, told newsmen that Indonesia's economic situation is serious but "not hopeless." He indicated that curing its ills would depend heavily on foreign aid.

The United States now gives no economic aid to Indonesia. Washington began cutting off aid in the early 1960's as Sukarno swung toward Peking and became openly anti-American.

When Sukarno spurned the United Nations last year, he turned his back on $50 million that had been earmarked for Indonesia by such specialized U.N. agencies as the International Monetary Fund. Indonesia had already received $35 million in U. N. aid during the 14 years before its walkout.

The price of rice has climbed 30 times in the past 14 months. Indonesia, fifth largest nation in the world with a population of 105 million, has bled its resources of foreign exchange by importing up to $125 million worth of rice every year until last year.

Maj. Gen. Basuki Rachmat, the home minister, said that 18 former members of Sukarno's Cabinet were now under arrest — indicating three more had been detained since the roundup of pro-Communist ministers March 18.

Soviet's Luna 10 Orbiting Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government told the Communist party congress today that Luna 10 has gone into orbit around the moon, marking a major step toward a manned landing.

The announced Soviet Craft chalks up a key victory over the United States, which still has to match the soft moon landing achieved by the Soviet's Luna 9 on Feb. 3. The American lunar program is not scheduled to begin launching rockets to orbit the moon until late this year.

The British space scientist said the exploit raised a number of interesting possibilities: that the Russians would adjust the satellite's orbit, bring it out of orbit and land it on the moon, or bring it back to earth. But he added: "I think the most likely thing is that they will leave it there."

"If the Russians decide to leave it in the present orbit of the moon, it will give important information about the gravitation and shape of the moon."

Priest Wins In Struggle With Gunman

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Catholic priest stood facing several hundred parishioners at mass and told them how he wrestled with a gunman in a confessional booth.

"I came out of the confessional (Saturday night) and saw a man and two boys seated in the church," the Rev. Isidore J. Paulus, 61, pastor of St. Stephen's Church, said Sunday.

The priest heard one boy's confession, then started to leave the booth.

"The man ordered me to turn around," Father Paulus continued, "and when I did I saw he had a gun."

The priest said he spun and grabbed for the gun. It fired twice and both shots went wild.

Police arrived and held the man in connection with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Police identified him as Charles Salaben, 61, of suburban Brook Park, a former parishioner of St. Stephen's.

Police said Salaben's wife told them her husband had been dependent on the death a year ago of his "favorite niece, whom he had helped raise."

She said her husband was so shocked by the sight of the girl's body that "he hasn't been the same since." The niece was killed in an auto accident in Lima, Ohio.

Kindergarten Registration Slated Wednesday for City

Kindergarten registration for the 1966-67 school term in Circleville will be conducted Wednesday at various registration centers in the city.

Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, urged parents to register their children on Wednesday if they expect to enter kindergarten this fall. It is of prime importance, Jacobs noted, before building assignments can be made.

To be eligible for kindergarten within the city school district, a child must be five years of age before Sept. 1. A birth certificate, or reasonable facsimile, must be presented at the time of registration.

Registration will be handled at the following schools which will register children residing in designated areas.

WALNUT St. Elementary—all pupils living on Barnes Ave.

and south (these pupils will attend the S. Court St. School this fall and the Walnut building will be abandoned).

Mound St. Elementary—all pupils living north of Barnes

Tampa Slashed By Tornadoes

2 Counties Called Disaster Areas

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tornadoes slashed through at least eight Florida cities today, killing seven persons, injuring dozens more and causing massive damage.

Two stricken counties were declared disaster areas by Gov. Haydon Burns and the National Guard was sent in to help search for survivors in dozens of smashed and twisted buildings.

The seven deaths were reported in Tampa, the state's second largest city with a population of 274,000, and officials indicated there might be more.

At least 100 persons were injured in a widespread area.

About 30 children were hospitalized at Lakeland, some 50 miles east of Tampa, after a twister ripped the roof from a junior high school shortly after the start of classes.

"We're so swamped in the emergency room we can't tell you exactly how many people are hurt," a spokesman for a Lakeland Hospital reported.

In St. Petersburg, just across the bay from Tampa, at least 40 homes in a fashionable residential area were heavily damaged and nine persons were injured, none seriously.

The twisters, spinning viciously out of a dark squall line, first struck at Tampa and St. Petersburg, on the Gulf Coast, then marched across the state through several smaller communities all the way to Melbourne, on the Atlantic Coast.

Paul Robinson, a newsmen for St. Petersburg radio station WLCY, said he personally counted 21 persons injured in a

Kindergarten Registration Slated Wednesday for City

Kindergarten registration for the 1966-67 school term in Circleville will be conducted Wednesday at various registration centers in the city.

Fritz Jacobs, superintendent, urged parents to register their children on Wednesday if they expect to enter kindergarten this fall. It is of prime importance, Jacobs noted, before building assignments can be made.

To be eligible for kindergarten within the city school district, a child must be five years of age before Sept. 1. A birth certificate, or reasonable facsimile, must be presented at the time of registration.

Registration will be handled at the following schools which will register children residing in designated areas.

WALNUT St. Elementary—all pupils living on Barnes Ave. and south (these pupils will attend the S. Court St. School this fall and the Walnut building will be abandoned).

Tampa Slashed By Tornadoes

2 Counties Called Disaster Areas

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tornadoes slashed through at least eight Florida cities today, killing seven persons, injuring dozens more and causing massive damage.

Two stricken counties were declared disaster areas by Gov. Haydon Burns and the National Guard was sent in to help search for survivors in dozens of smashed and twisted buildings.

The seven deaths were reported in Tampa, the state's second largest city with a population of 274,000, and officials indicated there might be more.

At least 100 persons were injured in a widespread area.

About 30 children were hospitalized at Lakeland, some 50 miles east of Tampa, after a twister ripped the roof from a junior high school shortly after the start of classes.

"We're so swamped in the emergency room we can't tell you exactly how many people are hurt," a spokesman for a Lakeland Hospital reported.

In St. Petersburg, just across the bay from Tampa, at least 40 homes in a fashionable residential area were heavily damaged and nine persons were injured, none seriously.

The twisters, spinning viciously out of a dark squall line, first struck at Tampa and St. Petersburg, on the Gulf Coast, then marched across the state through several smaller communities all the way to Melbourne, on the Atlantic Coast.

Paul Robinson, a newsmen for St. Petersburg radio station WLCY, said he personally counted 21 persons injured in a

Grandfather, 43, Acts as Midwife

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — Robert L. Akins delivered the baby which made him a grandfather Sunday.

Akins, 43, was called on to play midwife at his home in the pre-dawn hours when his daughter's baby began to arrive before the ambulance.

The 6 pound, 6 ounce baby girl was promptly named Traci Dawn.

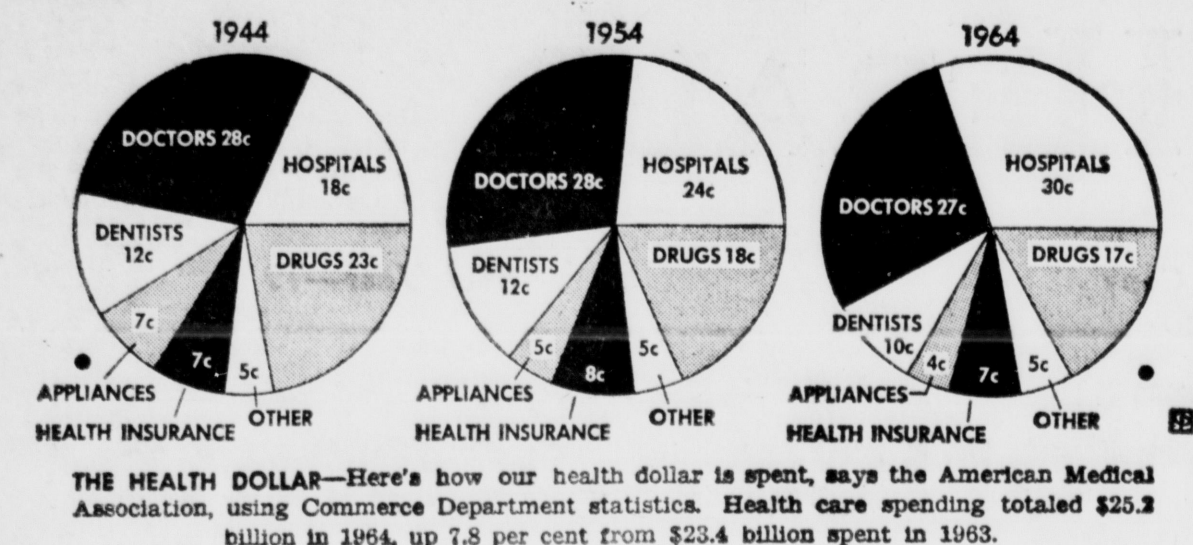

The new parents, Bill Tucker, 22, and his wife, Deborah, 18, had spent the night at the Akins home while Bill attended an Army reserve drill.

Jobless Negroes Pitch Tents Near White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Homeless and jobless Mississippi Negroes camped today in four tents in a park across the street from the White House to dramatize their plea for $1.3 million in antipoverty funds.

"We're going to keep this up until we receive some assurance from the President that we don't have to spend another winter in our tents in Mississippi," said Frank Smith, the group's leader.

The 90 Negroes—residents of tent cities near Greenville and Greenwood—took turns squatting and sleeping in the tents. Mostly ex-farmhands and plantation workers, they had come to Washington Thursday in hopes of speeding up requests for funds for do-it-yourself job training and home construction projects.

Sunday they turned a march and prayer vigil into a tent-in-alongside four petunia beds on the neatly trimmed grass of Lafayette Park, a square that has become a traditional gathering place for White House protest marches and pickets.

"After the march, the people just wanted to stay here," Smith said.

"We put up the tents," he said in an interview inside a tent, "because we want to present our case for the fund requests we have before OEO (the Office of Economic Opportunity). We're dissatisfied with the response we got from them."

Smith said he had sent a telegram to the President Sunday outlining comment.

As Smith spoke, five sleeping youngsters squirmed and wriggled inside sleeping bags. Outside, roughly dressed men talked. Behind them gleamed the Washington Monument.

"Hope we won't be here too long," Smith said. "We want to go home and start building homes." He said the tents were rented for four days—for $65—from a Washington firm.

"We got to have a home," said camper John H. Sylvester, who appears older than his 43. "We're tired of living in tents."

Sylvester said he went on strike last year on a plantation where he was earning $5 a day. His wife earned $3 daily. Their three children were asleep in one of the tents, he said.

Thursday the campers described their living conditions and pleaded their case for antipoverty funds before the House Committee on Education and Labor, headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. Powell arranged a meeting with OEO officials and promised to "put pressure on the executive branch."

But an OEO spokesman said Sunday the group, which had offered three proposals for antipoverty grants, had little chance of getting the money because of inadequate mortgaging arrangements and the lack of available property on which to build homes.

U.S. Park police kept a close watch on the campers but made no arrests. "It's technically illegal," said Lt. R. R. Kerzoy, "but rather than having it explode we'll let them stay where they are."

'Ready' Units Still on Paper

2 Army Brigades Remain Uninformed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two regular Army brigades mentioned by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as among "several important steps" taken to boost readiness, still exist only on paper, it was learned today.

The Army acknowledged that formation of the two brigades at Ft. Campbell, Ky., and Ft. Benning, Ga., has slipped by several months.

"Higher priority activations of new units scheduled for deployment to Viet Nam caused a slippage in the original schedule," the Army said.

Spokesmen said the two units, which will total nearly 8,000 men in all, are now to be organized during the next three months.

The brigade designated for Ft. Campbell was to have been set up in January, the one at Ft. Benning in February.

The AP inquired about the status of the two brigades after McNamara made public a letter March 31 defending his policy of using four regular Army divisions in the United States to train recruits and draftees.

In the letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, McNamara conceded that this reduced the combat readiness of the four divisions. But, the secretary assured Stennis, "several important steps were taken to offset this."

Among those steps, McNamara said, "the active Army is being temporarily augmented by one division and three brigades, the equivalent of two divisions."

The new 9th Infantry Division, referred to by the Pentagon chief, was activated in early February at Ft. Riley, Kan. That was about two months behind schedule and the division will be in combat shape next fall, by present indications.

One of the three brigades was formed according to plan last October at Ft. Devens, Mass. Army sources said it is now about ready.

Home Front Rebellion Grows in South Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—Rioting broke out in Saigon tonight as Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime wrestled with a rising rebellion on its doorstep and in the northern city of Dan Nang. The U.S. Military Command declared the capital's streets, bars and public places off limits to off-duty American personnel.

Government police with tear gas and clubs broke up about 500 teen-age demonstrators at the old National Assembly building in the Tu Do but the youths then surged toward the Saigon River in the direction of the U.S. embassy.

Another 1,000 demonstrators struck out from the Buddhist Institute, but police beat them back with tear gas and club charges.

The rioting was the worst to hit Saigon in recent crisis that threatens the life of Ky's nine-month-old government.

Police cordoned off the U.S. Information Service building, one block from the National Assembly. Tear gas floated in clouds over streets used by the demonstrators to reach the heart of town. The demonstrators appeared to be in the 11 to 15 age bracket.

Demonstrators overturned an American military jeep and set fire to it. None of the occupants were hurt.

The U.S. command declared Saigon off limits round-the-clock to military men shortly before the demonstrators broke out tonight.

In a nationwide broadcast, chief of state Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu appealed once more for an end to the wave of demonstrations and violence. He also announced that all schools would be closed for an indefinite period beginning Tuesday.

Ky mobilized planes and paratroopers to end what he called a Communist-inspired state of insurrection in Da Nang.

Da Nang's mayor denounced Ky's charges and said the people of South Viet Nam's second largest city "will stand up" to any attempt to seize it.

While the political threat held the attention of Ky and the ruling junta of generals, American fighting men bore the brunt of the war effort in four major ground sweeps against little resistance in the south and 72 air strikes—a near record—against North Viet Nam.

Only 20 miles southwest of troubled Da Nang, U.S. Marines continued a sweep called Operation Orange but were under strict orders to avoid any involvement in the swirling political developments. B52s from Guam dropped tons of explosives on suspected enemy escape routes five miles ahead of the Marine thrust this morning.

With skies clear over North Viet Nam Sunday, U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers destroyed six bridges and damaged 17, sank three junks and damaged six and cratered roads from the 17th Parallel frontier to Vinh, 150 miles to the north, a U.S. spokesman reported.

With the twisters came torrential rains that flooded parts of Tampa and St. Petersburg. Power was lost in most of the stricken cities.

Gov. Haydon Burns interrupted an election campaign swing in south Florida to fly to Lakeland, which appeared to be the hardest hit community.

Also struck were Winter Haven and Auburndale, both about 35 miles east of Tampa; Clearwater, on the Gulf Coast northwest of Tampa; and Cocoa and Melbourne on the Atlantic Coast.

Clearwater, about 30 miles northwest of Tampa, apparently escaped with relatively minor damage. Windows were blown out, signs went down, a 20-foot boat on a trailer was hurled through a filling station window.

Torrents of rain fell and power went out in the area blacking out traffic lights and causing a monster traffic jam on busy Gulf to Bay Blvd., during the height of the morning rush hour.

At Melbourne, a state highway patrolman reported:

"Twisters hit at six different places. We have quite a few injured now. Trailers and cars have been overturned. All our cars are enroute to the scene."

From the paths of the tornadoes came dozens of reports of homes smashed, trees and utility poles toppled, buildings unroofed and cars tossed around like toys.

Two small girls were injured when the school bus was overturned by a twister in a fashionable residential area on Tampa's North Side.

Trees, windows and cars were buffeted and smashed by the twister and several homes were unroofed. A dormitory at the University of South Florida lost its roof.

"There were no students hurt that we know of," said Andrew Rodgers, the university's business manager.

Other twisters were reported near St. Petersburg, Clearwater and Lakeland.

In Auburndale, about 35 miles east of Tampa, police reported six houses damaged. Some of them unroofed.

The Weather Bureau issued a tornado watch for portions of central Florida, extending all the way from Tampa on the West Coast to Melbourne on the Atlantic Coast.

Severe thunderstorms with large hail and damaging winds also were forecast.

Stock Mart Prices Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—Blue chips and glamor stocks got in gear as the stock market rallied early this afternoon in heavy trading which seemed heading for a ten-million-share session.

Institutional buying of blue chips like American Telephone—recently battered down to a monotonous series of four-year lows—combined with lively trading in high-flyers to produce a solid advance.

The market surged ahead for an hour and then encountered some profit taking but still remained substantially higher.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.40 at 937.69 after showing a gain of 8.40 at 11 a.m. (EST).

Stock Mart Prices Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chips and glamor stocks got in gear as the stock market rallied early this afternoon in heavy trading which seemed heading for a ten million-share session.

Institutional buying of blue chips like American Telephone — recently battered down to a monotonous series of four-year lows — combined with lively trading in high-flyers to produce a solid advance.

The market surged ahead for an hour and then encountered some profit taking but still remained substantially higher.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.40 at $37.69 after showing a gain of 8.40 at 11 a.m. (EST).

Jobless Negroes Pitch Tents Near White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Homeless and jobless Mississippi Negroes camped today in four tents in a park across the street from the White House to dramatize their plea for $1.3 million in antipoverty funds.

"We're going to keep this up until we receive some assurance from the President that we don't have to spend another winter in our tents in Mississippi," said Frank Smith, the group's leader.

The 90 Negroes — residents of tent cities near Greenville and Greenwood — took turns squatting and sleeping in the tents. Mostly ex-farmhands and plantation workers, they had come to Washington Thursday in hopes of speeding up requests for funds for do-it-yourself job training and home construction projects.

Sunday they turned a march and prayer vigil into a tent-in-alongside four petunia beds on the neatly trimmed grass of Lafayette Park, a square that has become a traditional gathering place for White House protest marches and pickets.

"After the march, the people just wanted to stay here," Smith said.

"We put up the tents," he said in an interview inside a tent, "because we want to present our case for the fund requests we have before OEO (the Office of Economic Opportunity). We're dissatisfied with the response we got from them."

Smith said he had sent a telegram to the President Sunday outlining comment.

As Smith spoke, five sleeping youngsters squirmed and wriggled inside sleeping bags. Outside, roughly dressed men talked. Behind them gleamed the Washington Monument.

"Hope we won't be here too long," Smith said. "We want to go home and start building homes." He said the tents were rented for

Soviet Chieftains Offer Russian Citizens Little

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

The Soviet Communist party leadership has had a week of its 23rd congress — the first congress without the noisy presence of Nikita S. Khrushchev — in which to project its image before the Soviet public. It has offered little for the average Soviet citizen to cheer about.

The leaders have denied Stalin again and voiced their aversion to Stalinism. But they have retreated into some aspects of Stalinism, evidently out of apprehension over the future of the entrenched top-level bureaucracy.

Basically, what seems to have happened is that the relaxations of the post-Stalin era had gone too far for the leaders' own comfort. Criticism of the Stalin era implied criticism of the party itself.

Now, in some respects, the leaders seem to be intent upon returning to some aspects of the past. They seem to want to clean up that picture of the Stalin era, the butt of so much outspoken criticism in the past 10 years, and to upgrade the party's history. The object appears to be to halt an erosion of party authority engendered by cynicism among young people and intellectuals.

The leaders have revived the terms Politburo and general secretary, both indelibly stamped with the Stalin era. There appears to be almost a desperation in this, to make clear that the Communist party of the Soviet Union remains the Bolshevik party of Lenin's and Stalin's day.

The first party secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, who presumably now will become general secretary and chairman of a Politburo rather than a party Presidium; Premier Alexei T. Kosygin, President Nikolai Podgorny, ideologist Mikhail Suslov and others at the top all are linked with the Stalin era.

When they return to its terms and tools, they evoke memories of a dictator who, as general secretary, ruled his party, Politburo and nation with a hand of steel. The term Politburo has not been used since the 19th congress in 1952, just before Stalin died, when the political bureau of the party was transformed into a Presidium.

Soviet intellectuals now can begin worrying about sterner discipline and more rigid control of what they can say and do. The restoration of the old terms has bridged a 14-year gap, overleaping the whole Khrushchev era and its promise of liberalization, and re-establishing alink to the Stalin period.

Obviously, some in the party leadership are unhappy with matters as they have been recently. By official count, there are 11,673,676 Communist party members and 797,403 candidate members, which means that one in every 18 Soviet men, women and children is a member of the party. That is more than five million above the number in 1956 at the time of the 20th — de-Stalinization — congress.

Membership in the party once was difficult to achieve. It was considered the only reliable stepping stone to a successful career. Khrushchev, as a con-party ranks to buttress his power. Those who sought membership purely for reason of personal advancement — basically the cynical unbelievers — swelled party ranks and diluted party authority.

Today, party membership is no longer necessary for a successful career. Indeed, many do quite well outside the party ranks. The goal of party membership obviously has been cheapened, as Communists view it.

Brezhnev may have had all this in mind when he told the congress that party membership henceforth would be more difficult to achieve. Young people wanting to get into the party will do so only after careful screening. Gradually the party may be sealed down to a membership which is more manageable.

But the leaders are far from finished with their problems. Demand from below for a more liberalized system and a better share of Soviet wealth probably is more insistent now than ever. Ideological ideas have pushed in from the West.

If it takes a form of Stalinism to mute the implied criticism of party leadership, the machinery now exists in the light of what the congress has produced to date.

TODAY In History

Today is Monday, April 4, the 94th day of 1966. There are 271 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1790, at the urging of Alexander Hamilton, the U.S. Coast Guard was established by Congress. The immediate need was the prevalence of piracy and smuggling off the coast.

On this date In 1818, the U. S. flag was officially established as being made up of 13 stripes and a star for each state.

In 1841, John Tyler became president of the United States, following the death of William Henry Harrison.

In 1941, German armies were pouring through Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.

In 1943, American bombers attacked enemy shipping in the port of Naples, Italy.

In 1946, the so-called Blue Beard of Paris was found guilty of murder. He was Dr. Marcel Petiot who had been accused of robbing and then killing 29 persons.

Ten years ago — Actress Grace Kelly sailed from New York for Monaco in preparation for her marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met in Washington a series of talks on world problems. The talks were held in the White House and during a Potomac River cruise of the presidential yacht.

One year ago — West Berlin Mayor Willie Brandt of Germany was barred by East German police from traveling on the autobahn to his own city.

As winter's final days grow longer, increasing light stimulates robin's pituitary gland to give off hormones. These activate the reproductive organs that in turn secrete other hormones into the blood stream. Thus are set up a series of urges to be obeyed in regular sequence. One of the first compels the bird to go back north to its breeding ground.

Soviet Chieftains Offer Russian Citizens Little

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

The Soviet Communist party leadership has had a week of its 23rd congress — the first congress without the noisy presence of Nikita S. Khrushchev — in which to project its image before the Soviet public. It has offered little for the average Soviet citizen to cheer about.

The leaders have denied Stalin again and voiced their aversion to Stalinism. But they have retreated into some aspects of Stalinism, evidently out of apprehension over the future of the entrenched top-level bureaucracy.

Basically, what takes place here is that the relaxations of the post-Stalin era had gone too far for the leaders' own comfort. Criticism of the Stalin era implied criticism of the party itself.

Now, in some respects, the leaders seem to be intent upon returning to some aspects of the past. They seem to want to clean up that picture of the Stalin era, the butt of so much outspoken criticism in the past 10 years, and to upgrade the party's history. The object appears to be to halt an erosion of party authority engendered by cynicism among young people and intellectuals.

The leaders have revived the terms Politburo and general secretary, both indelibly stamped with the Stalin era. There appears to be almost a desperation in this, to make clear that the Communist party of the Soviet Union remains the Bolshevik party of Lenin's and Stalin's day.

The first party secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, who presumably now will become general secretary and chairman of a Politburo rather than a party Presidium; Premier Alexei T. Kosygin, President Nikolai Podgorny, ideologist Mikhail Suslov and others at the top all are linked with the Stalin era.

When they return to its terms and tools, they evoke memories of a dictator who, as general secretary, ruled his party, Politburo and nation with a hand of steel. The term Politburo has not been used since the 19th congress in 1952, just before Stalin died, when the political bureau of the party was transformed into a Presidium.

Soviet intellectuals now can begin worrying about sterner discipline and more rigid control of what they can say and do. The restoration of the old terms has bridged a 14-year gap, overleaping the whole Khrushchev era and its promise of liberalization, and re-establishing alink to the Stalin period.

Obviously, some in the party leadership are unhappy with matters as they have been recently. By official count, there are 11,673,676 Communist party members, which means that one in every 18 Soviet men, women and children is a member of the party. That is more than five million above the number in 1956 at the time of the 20th — de-Stalinization — congress.

Membership in the party once was difficult to achieve. It was considered the only reliable stepping stone to a successful career. Khrushchev, as a party ranks to buttress his power. Those who sought membership purely for reason of personal advancement — basically the cynical unbelievers — swelled party ranks and diluted party authority.

Today, party membership is no longer necessary for a successful career. Indeed, many do quite well outside the party ranks. The goal of party membership obviously has been cheapened, as Communists view it.

Brezhnev may have had all this in mind when he told the congress that party membership henceforth would be more difficult to achieve. Young people wanting to get into the party will do so only after careful screening. Gradually the party may be scaled down to a membership which is more manageable.

But the leaders are far from finished with their problems. Demand from below for a more liberalized system and a better share of Soviet wealth probably is more insistent now than ever. Ideological ideas have pushed in from the West.

If it takes a form of Stalinism to mute the implied criticism of party leadership, the machinery now exists in the light of what the congress has produced to date.

Common Sense

Now that France has decided to withdraw its remaining land and air forces from the unified NATO command, it would be bad taste for other members of the deteriorating treaty organization to keep their forces on French soil any longer than absolutely necessary.

With that view uppermost in its mind, and without the usual diplomatic hemming and hawing, Ottawa has announced it will get Canadian forces off French soil as soon as possible, probably before the 1969 time limit established by President de Gaulle.

Canada's decision was statesmanlike. If it has any claims against France resulting from violation of treaty agreements, it can make them later.

The next step is relocation. But even before new bases are found, perhaps the whole NATO concept will have to be reexamined in the light of the new Europe.

The Business World

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The second quarter of 1966 rolled around during the week with business still booming and inflation storm warnings flying.

Prices were advancing and spending plans were rising and the Johnson administration was apprehensive that the economy would overheat and inflation balloon.

On Tuesday President Johnson indicated he will ask Congress for an income tax increase if prices continue to go up. This sent the stock market tumbling.

The President mentioned a possible boost of $5 billion affecting both individual and corporate taxes but emphasized that no decision had been reached.

"Congress would rather have a modest tax increase of 5, 6 or 7 per cent of the tax bill, corporate and personal, than to see inflation and the value of the dollar go down," he said.

He said most of his advisers believe anti-inflation measures taken so far will not do the trick. They are talking about government control, a federal spending cut of $5 billion to $10 billion, or a tax increase of $5 billion or less.

It would be better, said Johnson, if no industry in the country raised their prices and wage boosts were held to 3.2 per cent.

Johnson was disclosed to have telephoned 25 to 30 business leaders to urge a go slow approach toward capital spending that might fuel inflationary fires.

The President entertained 150 business leaders at dinner at the White House Wednesday night and asked that they review, and curtail where possible, plans for new capital investment. Many in his audience pledged support.

The following day, W. B. Murphy, president of Campbell Soup Co. and chairman of the Business Council, ordered postponement of all capital outlays of his company that are "desirable but not essential."

On Thursday, Johnson said the economy "is not shooting off into outer space" but that if inflation gets rolling he won't hesitate to ask for a tax boost or other fiscal restraints.

"Most serious of all," he said "prices are moving up much too fast for comfort. The day before yesterday we announced a one-half of 1 per cent increase in consumer prices between January and February. Over the last five months wholesale prices have been rising at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent a year. Increases at these rates could not be long tolerated."

This week Brown Shoe Co. and Interco, Inc., announced price increases of about 4 1/2 per cent for shoes. Libbey-Owens Ford Glass Co. raised sheet glass prices 5 per cent. American Standard Industrial Division of American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corp. boosted the price of its Remotair Type 41 unitary air conditioner 5 per cent, major sulphur producers raised prices $1 to $2 a ton, and major producers of concentrated phosphatic fertilizer materials hiked prices about 3 1/2 per cent.

The rise in the cost of living was the steepest for February since the Korean War.

The climb was due primarily to soaring food prices, particularly for meat.

The rise in the index measuring typical family living costs put the index at 111.6. This meant it required $11.16 last month to buy items that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen called a strike against eight major railroads operating in 38 states. It involved elimination of firemen's jobs. The lines include 2.2 per cent of the nation's track mileage.

Defense shipments were halted and travelers and commuters had to find alternate means of transportation.

A federal court in Washington, D.C., issued an order that the union cease the strike.

General Motors Corp. put seven plants, including three automobile assembly plants, or partial work turns because of the strike.

Automobile production this week dipped to an estimated 205,000 passenger cars from 207,796 last week but was ahead of the 196,785 built a year ago.

The four automakers scheduled 2.56 million car assemblies for the second quarter, just a shade under the 2,598,000 built in the 1965 period.

Steel production last week slipped from the preceding week's level for the first time in two months. Output totaled 2,709,000 tons, compared with 2,731 million tons the previous week.

What are America's most popular family names? Well, we now have at least 1.3 million Smiths, 900,000 Johnsons, 750,000 Williamses, 650,000 Browns, the same number of Joneses and half a million each of Wilsons and Davises.

Can a neurological examination be performed by a general physician?

Neurological tests are an important part of every general physical examination.

Movement of the eyeballs, muscles of the face, balance, vision and hearing are studied for any disturbances.

When the history of any illness or some special signs are evident the general physician may seek the opinion of a specialist, or a neurologist.

X-rays with special dyes can outline the spinal cord, brain and blood vessels leading to it. These complicated tests are individually chosen to confirm the suspected neurological diagnosis.

Do varicose veins ever occur in other parts of the body besides the legs?

Varicose veins, or varicosities, do occur in other parts of the body. The place may be different but the mechanism is the same.

Varicose veins are enlarged veins through which blood flows rather slowly and then stagnates. Veins, unlike arteries, have small valves which normally prevent a "back flow." When these valves fail to work well and become "incompetent," the veins become enlarged.

Varicose veins of the esophagus form when there is back pressure in the veins from cirrhosis of the liver.

Sometimes these enlarged blood vessels on the lining of the esophagus rupture and cause bleeding from the mouth.

Things are entirely different from what they were a generation ago when the great Revolutionary painters could seldom resist sticking the faces of Lenin and Trotsky into their violent murals, and when the then President Cardenas did not bother to disguise his sympathy for all manifestations of the Marxist Left.

The bankruptcy of contemporary Mexican Marxism has just been proved by the feeble response of the public to "Viet Cong Week," which actually dribbled along for ten days of listless celebrations in half-empty halls and semi-deserted public squares. The effort to revive moribund anti-Yankee grudges by burning the U. S. flag brought cheers from a handful of hard-core Communists, but the heralded "unity" of the Marxist parties — the Communist Party of Mexico and the Popular Socialist Party — was limited to the single theme of anti-Americanism. With the Soviet-supported Castroism and Chinese Maoism taking divergent courses, the local Marxists are ideologically splintered beyond immediate repair.

By contrast with the Marxists, the indigenous Mexican "Left" — which means the Party of the Revolution that has ruled Mexico ever since the Nineteen Twenties — staged a tremendously vital celebration on the occasion of the 160th birthday of the national hero, Benito Juarez, who tossed the French out of Mexico a hundred years ago and, as an eight-term President, put through the historic separation of church and State. This columnist happened to land in Mexico City on March 21, the day of the Juarez ceremonies. Not an office was open, which was a handicap in trying to line up interviews. But the crowds in the streets were far more eloquent than anything that might have been arranged between a newspaperman and a public figure. The labor unions turned out a hundred thousand workers to listen to the bands marching from the Monument of the Revolution to a Juarez monument in Alameda Park. The implicit condemnation of "Viet Cong Week," then staggering to its tenth-day close, was obvious.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The Circleville High School Hi-Y Club recently participated in a program presented by a representative of the YMCA movement for the Circleville and Pickaway County area.

On behalf of the Circleville Hi-Y Club, adviser David LaBounty and myself pledged full support for this movement of having local YMCA facilities.

We of the Hi-Y Club certainly feel that Circleville is deprived of recreational facilities for both young and old.

We also strongly urge every Circleville and Pickaway County resident to take full advantage of and extend support to this very worthwhile movement to establish a Circleville YMCA.

Ag Agency Displays Its Concern For Both U.S. Farmer, Consumer

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department is showing by deed as well as by word it is about as consumer-minded as it is farmer-oriented.

Despite its name, this big governmental department no longer has a bias toward producers in matters where there tends to be a conflict between farmers and consumers.

This fact—not yet generally accepted by housewives—has concrete evidence in the attitude of President Johnson and his secretary of agriculture, Orville L. Freeman, in the matter of stabilizing or controlling farm-product prices.

Freeman has made many a speech during his five years of tenure in which he has tried to show that his agency is the "people's department," and not solely a department for the nation's farm producers.

He has tried to get across to urban folks that his department has done very much for the non-rural residents. He has emphasized that despite some price rises, Americans are getting their food for a declining proportion of their income. Too, he has said, they are getting improved quality, cleaner and safer food supplies through department inspection and grading services, as well as contribution in the form of improved fibers, nutrition studies, pest controls, expanding outdoor recreation and the like.

But Freeman concedes that he has not been as successful in winning urban recognition of these benefits provided non-farm as well as farm people.

Doubtless some of the urban skepticism flows from the name of his department—agriculture. This name suggests a bias toward farmer just as the labor department suggests a bias toward organized labor. Freeman has given some thought to proposals that the department's name be changed to take in its broadened interests and service.

man has given some thought to proposals that the department's name be changed to take in its broadened interests and service.

But of great significance to farmers and consumers is the role the department is taking control farm prices.

That role largely reflects a deserting of a farm-product price goal once held sacrosanct. That goal, written into original farm-aid legislation of the early 1930s, is called parity. Parity prices were declared to be those that were fair to farmers in relation to prices farmers paid for goods and services.

What the Johnson administration is doing is to use what has been called an ever-normal granary program to keep farm prices from advancing to points that would bring further increases in consumer prices of some foods.

Under the ever-normal granary plan as envisioned by its author, former Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, surpluses moved into government hands under price-support operations. But these supplies could not be released below the parity prices of the affected crops.

But the Johnson administration is following a policy of releasing surpluses below the parity prices. It takes the view that the party price goals are unrealistic because, it holds, they are too high. But some farm groups debate this and have sought unsuccessfully to get Congress to require sale of government stocks at higher prices.

The administration wants to make the resale of government stocks at or near present levels a long-term policy that would apply to emergency reserves that would be maintained by the government to protect the nation against shortages.

Questioned about this policy

The Circleville Herald, Mon. April 4, 1966 5
Circleville, Ohio

by a House agriculture committee recently, Freeman said his department is attempting to "get the fair and decent price for the farmer, but also recognizing that the consumer has some rights for consideration, as well."

This statement brought from Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., a member of the committee, this comment:

"The Department of Agriculture

ture now is more the voice of the consumer than it is of the farmer."

To this, Freeman replied: "I am disturbed about that, but I plead guilty in the sense that the department is an important consumer-service agency, and that it will continue to be so, as this committee in many ways has directed it to be."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Show and Tell—All in Favor

DEAR ABBY: Every teacher who has a show and tell time in her classroom repeatedly tells the children, "Be sure you ask Mother and Daddy for permission before you take anything out of the house for show and tell." And the teacher also stresses that no child is to bring valuable, fragile, or irreplaceable treasures to school. Children will bring anything from an old dried up flower to a live kitten and delight in talking about it. Once a youngster brought a "human" skull to school for show and tell, and you should have heard the big tale he unraveled about how he happened to have it! I later learned it was plastic. His mother allowed him to take it to school, but when it came time to tell the story, the poor darling got completely carried away.

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been a kindergarten teacher for 10 years, so nobody has to tell me where the mother was when her child slipped out of the house with a pair of 44 falsies for show and tell. Mamma was in bed! Believe me, I could curl your hair with some of the stories children tell me. On child came to school freezing because every button was missing from her coat. I finally brought some buttons from home and sewed them on during my lunch period. This child is from a prominent well-to-do family. I once asked the child if she has breakfast at home and she said, "No, Mamma is sleeping when I leave, and she asks me to be quiet. But I don't care, my mommy is so pretty!"

TEACHER

DEAR ABBY: How I wish we had a show and tell time in school when I was a youngster. My teacher (a man) was so strict and stern we were all scared to death of him. Most teachers in my day were like that. The only time a child got a chance to say anything was when he was called upon to answer a question, or if he had to recite something he was told to memorize. A teacher certainly did not invite the children to bring odd items from home and discuss it with their classmates. Perhaps if we had had show and tell back in those days, we wouldn't have so many people who grew up petrified to open their mouths before more than four people. I was one of those self-conscious boobs, and

Suggestions For Decorating Picture Window

By ELEANOR ROSS

A picture window just has to sparkle. As the focal point in any room, it can't afford to be dull or dingy.

If you plan carefully in advance, even large expanses of glass, curtains and draperies can be easy to keep spotless. One idea is to use a curtain-drapery combination in order to dispense with the double upkeep of these two items.

Choose a fabric with sufficient weight to insure privacy, yet sheer enough to let the sunlight filter through. There are smart "thick and thin" blends of cotton and rayon as well as curtain weights of fiberglass, orlon, nylon and dacron in solid colors or prints. All of these are washable and require little or no ironing — special advantage with large window coverings.

Another suggestion is to hang draw curtains or draperies in single-width, unseamed panels. That way each one can be as full and luxurious as you like — depending on the number of adjoining panels used — yet they can be washed separately or in easily managed groups.

Use two parallel tracks, one slightly above the other, and arrange the panels alternately so they can overlap for better drape.

Curtains or draperies "assembled" in this way last longer because the panels can be interchanged after laundering. The same ones need not always bear the brunt of direct exposure.

I never got over it.

PUSHING SEVENTY

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing a "DEAR ABBY" letter, but I must defend the teacher who had a show and tell time in her classroom. Why does the mother blame the teacher because the child took a pair of 44 falsies to school? See, it's always open season on school teachers. A mother who has a real interest in her child will know more about the child's school than this mother appears to know. Show and tell time is, in my opinion, one of the most constructive ideas ever to be brought into the classroom. It helps the shy child express himself, and it allows him to be the center of attention in a pleasant way. No matter how uncooperative and incorrigible a child is at other times, during show and tell he is an "angel."

K.C. TEACHER

sure to sunlight or radiator heat.

If a cornice is desirable to cover the double-track rods, use a type of buckram backing made for that purpose. It is treated with a special finish for safe washability so the cornice can be suds-dunked without losing its original stiffness.

If you prefer ruffled tie-backs at a large window, choose an easy-care fabric that requires little or no ironing — sheer nylon, orlon, dacron or fiberglass.

For the special crispness of cotton curtains, select permanent finish fabrics to eliminate starching. These can be machine-washed in protective bags. If extra stiffness is desired after a series of launderings, they can be lightly starched.

A sew-it-yourself valance can be made easy to manage by using a special ruffling tape, laced with shirring cords which can be stitched flat to the fabric. When this tape is gathered, the fabric goes along with it. At laundering time, both tape and fabric can be stretched flat again for easy washing and ironing.

If you buy very full ruffled curtains, consider the "built-in" tie-back tapes; these make it easier to gather the curtain back to the desired position after laundering and rehanging. To drape both sides evenly, gather one tie-back, then the other, making sure the excess tape is the same length in each case.

Apparently, there is no limit to the variety of materials that make it easy to keep a picture window looking as pretty as a picture.

Glass Record

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. housewives in 1965 used more glass bottles and jars than in any previous year.

Almost 30 billion new glass containers were produced to carry items ranging from soda pop to catsup according to estimates made for the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

Counting the re-use of millions of bottles for milk, soft drinks and beer, Americans consumed some 72 billion bottles and jars of glass - packaged products in 1965.

That averages out to more than 375 per capita—More than any other type of rigid container.

Viet Victory Seen in 'Heart'

Military Action Listed Secondary

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)—The muscular philosopher now in command of Viet Nam's troubled 1st Military Corps believes that victory in this most northernmost section of the country will be achieved — but neither easily nor quickly.

This corps stretches about 140 miles from the 17th parallel to Binh Dinh Province in the central part of South Viet Nam.

Defeat of the Communists here will be accomplished, says Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Chuan, through patience, military power and, most important, convincing people that the government's cause is just.

Chuan does not think that massive American military power is the ultimate answer to his problems.

"We need your (American) help and cooperation very much," said Chuan, 43, a professional soldier.

"We — I — will make mistakes. But it is our country and our responsibility. Military victories are important but this war will be won only in the hearts and minds of the people who grow the rice and catch the fish."

Chuan took over 1st Corps March 10 with the ousting of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi by the 10-men directory of generals that runs South Viet Nam.

The directory decided that Thi's abilities did not exceed his ambitions and removed him from his post. Chuan was one of his favorites.

Computers have multiplied from a handful in 1950 to about 20,000 today. Most sell for $100,000 to $3 million.

New State Magazine Aims For 100,000 Subscribers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new Ohio magazine has locked up its first year anniversary issue well on the way to its goal of 100,000 subscriptions and confident of making that mark.

"The Wonderful World of Ohio" a monthly published by the state Natural Resources Department, claims 59,000 paid subscriptions and total circulation, counting news stand sales, of about 70,000.

It may not hit the goal of 100,000, set by Gov. James A. Rhodes when he ordered the magazine started, by the June issue. But, said W. Kelton Jones, chief of administrative services for the Natural Resources Department, "I feel sure that they will."

"I would like to see a minimum of 100,000 to 150,000," Jones said, "but as an individual I would like to see it hit a quarter of a million."

The magazine is not paying its way yet from the subscriptions, but it may do that, too.

"We will hit a point where costs will be met by income, but not at this point," Jones said. At present, that point would be about 100,000 circulation. Cutting costs might lower the break-even point.

Costs are hard to assess, since many Natural Resources employees who work on the magazine also have other duties. Other state departments contribute articles and photographs, too.

The magazine replaced a "Conservation Bulletin" form published by the department. It never paid its own way. That publication had 24,000 circulation, which "Wonderful World" inherited, along with the Bulletin staff.

The magazine's June issue, already "put to bed," contains articles on canoeing, underwater diving, baseball and clouds. It also has features of Columbus' German Village area and symphony orchestra and a story on the Highway Patrol.

Monthly features are articles on agriculture and highways, both prepared regularly by staffers of those state departments.

The majority of the magazine's stories and photos are produced by Editor Merrill Gilfillan, and his staff of two photographers, a part-time writer, an almost fulltime writer and an art editor.

Contributions, mostly photographs, also come from readers. And, said Gilfillan, "we get a lot of ideas . . . they're very welcome."

At present the magazine is printed by Columbus Blank Book Co. and mailed to subscribers by Heer Printing Co. of Columbus. American Education, Inc., of Columbus handles subscriptions and prepares each month's mailing labels. All these firms won contracts through competitive bidding, Jones said.

If You Ever Take This Test, Try for Low Score

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University professor is developing another test, but anyone who might be asked to take it should be careful to score as low as possible.

The test, being devised by criminologist Walter C. Reckless, is a yardstick that would measure a lawbreaker's likelihood of "going straight."

And, the test is scored on a scale ranging from a low of 24 up to 120 for the worst cases.

According to Reckless, a low index would indicate, for example, that a prisoner should be more adaptable to parole than another with a high index. A parole officer, using the new method, could sort out his high index parolees, and pay more attention to them, according to Reckless.

"Development of a uniform index of criminality will eliminate or lessen the need of trying to determine a prisoner's crime potential by studying criminal records," Reckless said.

Reckless added that the index being developed by his team is determined by going back to the existing law and records and finding out the prisoner's attitude toward law and authority.

"This gives us a fair idea of his potential for crime," he explained.

He said discovering the attitude of the offender was not the same as the record of arrests, but the potential back of criminal behavior — "something we can get a measure of like blood count or sugar level."

"When a person has a certain criminality level, he's likely to be in trouble," he said.

Reckless said the index is computed for reactions to a list of 24 statements of attitude toward law, legal institutions and law enforcement officials. Reactions are sought to such statements as:

"It is more wrong to get caught than it is to steal." "Law is the enemy of freedom." "You can't get justice in the courts." "Most juries are fixed." "Prosecutors are nothing but politicians." "No decent lawyer would ever be a prosecutor."

and "Policemen are just as crooked as the people they arrest."

A subject would have five choices to match his reaction to a statement, ranging from "strongly agree" through "agree," "no reaction," "disagree," and "strongly disagree."

Each response would be graded from 1 to 5, with the most favorable response getting a low score and the least favorable a high score. Thus, 120 would be the worst possible score for the test of 24 questions.

BURNED BOY'S PARENTS CHARGED—Although he suffered second and third degree burns on his right hand, Joseph Besich, 3, manages a smile in Chicago. Police charged his parents, Joseph Sr., 39, and Kathleen, 29, with cruelty. They admitted, police said, that they held the lad's hand over a lighted gas burner "to teach him a lesson."

VIET CONG CHAINED TO WEAPONS—Capt. Clay N. Mobley of Charlotte, N.C., demonstrates in War Zone D in South Viet Nam one of the iron collars found on dead Viet Cong. A chain from the collars held them at their machineguns.

Viet Victory Seen in 'Heart'

Military Action Listed Secondary

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP)—The muscular philosopher now in command of Viet Nam's troubled 1st Military Corps believes that victory in this most northernmost section of the country will be achieved — but neither easily nor quickly.

This corps stretches about 140 miles from the 17th parallel to Binh Dinh Province in the central part of South Viet Nam.

Defeat of the Communists here will be accomplished, says Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Chuan, through patience, military power and, most important, convincing people that the government's cause is just.

Chuan does not think that massive American military power is the ultimate answer to his problems.

"We need your (American) help and cooperation very much," said Chuan, 43, a professional soldier.

"We — I — will make mistakes. But it is our country and our responsibility. Military victories are important but this war will be won only in the hearts and minds of the people who grow the rice and catch the fish."

Chuan took over 1st Corps March 10 with the ousting of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi by the 10-men directory of generals that runs South Viet Nam.

The directory decided that Thi's abilities did not exceed his ambitions and removed him from his post. Chuan was one of his favorites.

New State Magazine Aims For 100,000 Subscribers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A new Ohio magazine has locked up its first year anniversary is sue well on the way to its goal of 100,000 subscriptions and confident of making that mark.

"The Wonderful World of Ohio" a monthly published by the state Natural Resources Department, claims 59,000 paid subscriptions and total circulation, counting news stand sales, of about 70,000.

It may not hit the goal of 100,000, set by Gov. James A. Rhodes when he ordered the magazine started, by the June issue. But, said W. Kelton Jones, chief of administrative services for the Natural Resources Department, "I feel sure that they will."

"I would like to see a minimum of 100,000 to 150,000," Jones said. "But as an individual I would like to see it hit a quarter of a million."

The magazine is not paying its way yet from the subscriptions, but it may do that, too.

"We will hit a point where costs will be met by income, but not at this point," Jones said. At present, that point would be about 100,000 circulation. Cutting costs might lower the break-even point.

Costs are hard to assess, since many Natural Resources employees who work on the magazine also have other duties. Other state departments contribute articles and photographs, too.

The magazine replaced a "Conservation Bulletin" form published by the department. It never paid its own way. That publication had 24,000 circulation, which "Wonderful World" inherited, along with the Bulletin staff.

The magazine's June issue, already "put to bed" contains articles on canoeing, underwater diving, baseball and clouds. It also has features of Columbus' German Village area and symphony orchestra and a story on the Highway Patrol.

Monthly features are articles on agriculture and highways, both prepared regularly by staffers of those state departments.

The majority of the magazine's stories and photos are produced by Editor Merrill Gilfillan, a parttime writer, an almost fulltime writer and an art editor.

Contributions, mostly photographs, also come from readers. And, said Gilfillan, "we get a lot of ideas . . . they're very welcome."

At present the magazine is printed by Columbus Blank Book Co. and mailed to subscribers by Heer Printing Co. of Columbus. American Education, Inc., of Columbus handles subscriptions and prepares each month's mailing labels. All these firms won contracts through competitive bidding, J. Jones said.

If You Ever Take This Test, Try for Low Score

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University professor is developing another test, but anyone who might be asked to take it should be careful to score as low as possible.

The test, being devised by criminologist Walter C. Reckless, is a yardstick that would measure a lawbreaker's likelihood of "going straight."

And, the test is scored on a scale ranging from a low of 24 up to 120 for the worst cases.

According to Reckless, a low index would indicate, for example, that a prisoner should be more adaptable to parole than another with a high index. A parole officer, using the new method, could sort out his high index parolees, and pay more attention to them, according to Reckless.

"Development of a uniform index of criminality will eliminate or lessen the need of trying to determine a prisoner's crime potential by studying criminal records," Reckless said.

Reckless added that the index being developed by his team is determined by going back to the existing law and records and finding out the prisoner's attitude toward law and authority.

"This gives us a fair idea of his potential for crime," he explained.

He said discovering the attitude of the offender was not the same as the record of arrests, but the potential back of criminal behavior — "something we can get a measure of like blood count or sugar level."

"When a person has a certain criminality level, he's likely to be in trouble," he said.

Reckless said the index is computed for reactions to a list of 24 statements of attitude toward law, legal institutions and law enforcement officials. Reactions are sought to such statements as:

"It is more wrong to get caught than it is to steal." "Law is the enemy of freedom." "You can't get justice in the courts." "Most juries are fixed." "Prosecutors are nothing but politicians." "No decent lawyer would ever be a prosecutor."

Each response would be graded from 1 to 5, with the most favorable response getting a low score and the least favorable a high score. Thus, 120 would be the worst possible score for the test of 24 questions.

A subject would have five choices to match his reaction to a statement, ranging from "strongly agree" through "agree," "no reaction," "disagree" and "strongly disagree."

Each response would be graded from 1 to 5, with the most favorable response getting a low score and the least favorable a high score. Thus, 120 would be the worst possible score for the test of 24 questions.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gruesome thing about the demonstrators efforts in South Viet Nam to overthrow their government in the midst of war is not only what happens now but what may lie ahead.

The Associated Press reported that in the demonstrations around the country against the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky much less than 1 per cent of the population has been directly involved.

Most of the other South Vietnamese are indifferent to politics and just want to stay alive. But a hard core of experienced politicians and religious figures, Buddhists, are behind the agitation.

In short, most of the Vietnamese have little knowledge or experience in democratic government. And the agitators don't seem to understand what stability of government in the midst of war means.

They overturned the civilian rule of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a dictator. Military officers who seized power later were thrown out. Now the agitators are after Ky. They want a civilian government.

But it could hardly be a truly representative government since most of the countryside is in the hands of the Viet Cong. And President Johnson had shown confidence in Ky by meeting with him in Honolulu earlier this year.

In the midst of it all there is a growing undertone of anti-

States do? Keep forces in South Viet Nam after the war to be sure it doesn't collapse into an archy, making it easy pickings for the Communists? Almost certainly it will have to keep some forces there and help the South Vietnamese economically and in other ways.

But by then, if they feel the Americans are no longer necessary to fight the Viet Cong, the South Vietnamese, judging from some of the present Anti-American mood, may want the Americans out. These people — held in bondage or subservience by the Chinese and French through most of their history — have had almost no preparation for running themselves on an even keel. As of now, trying to look into the future, it seems anything could happen in South Viet Nam, during or after the war. It's not a pleasant thought. But it's one that can't be ignored.

Welcome Extended to Public For VA Hospital Observance

"Hard to define, but easy to appreciate," is how Dr. Sam Beanstock, director of Chillicothe's Veterans Administration hospital, describes the welcome awaiting visitors on May 1.

He attributes this feeling to the dedicated interest of employees and volunteers in the purpose of its Hospital Day observance. They realize that better public understanding about mental illness will facilitate the readjustment of discharged patients to community life.

BETWEEN SCENES of "To-bruk" in production at El Centro, Calif., actor George Peppard holds a dead rattlesnake after some fast action in his mobile dressing room. When he noticed the 4½-foot reptile, he quickly threw his coat over it and beat it to death with a small table.

There has been continuous habitation of the Hell Gap, Wyo., area since late glacial times, according to age determinations made by the radiocarbon method.

Visitors will get a chance to meet these friendly people through open house activities being held on 14 different buildings. They will be on hand to explain the many skills and services that are required of the "hospital family." Comprehensive tours are planned through rehabilitation clinics, recreational facilities, dormitories, diet kitchens, dining rooms, laboratories, and various "behind-the-scenes" services including business offices. Special exhibits are also being "set up" in the hospital's huge gymnasium for those departments not included on the tours.

Dr. Beanstock points out that the size and type of VA hospital at Chillicothe provides definite advantages in celebrating Hospital Day. Adequate space exists for accommodating around 10,000 cars.

A daylong program, with social events and entertainment for visitors and patients, is possible without interfering with hospital operations. It also has an organized volunteer corps ready and able to assist in promoting the event on a statewide basis. This is necessary since its patients come from all parts of Ohio and from some areas in neighboring states.

Forty national organizations are represented on the Chillicothe VA hospital's Voluntary Services Advisory Committee. Among them is the American Legion which is serving as sponsor for this year's Hospital Day observance. Its department commander, Charles W. Heacock of Columbus, joins Dr. Beanstock in extending a "cordial invitation to everyone."

Both feel that all attending will benefit in two ways. One is through knowledge gained. The other is in contributing to patient treatment by assuring them of not being "forgotten."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gruesome thing about the demonstrators efforts in South Viet Nam to overthrow their government in the midst of war is not only what happens now but what may lie ahead.

The Associated Press reported that in the demonstrations around the country against the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky much less than 1 per cent of the population has been directly involved.

Most of the other South Vietnamese are indifferent to politics and just want to stay alive. But a hard core of experienced politicians and religious figures, Buddhists, are behind the agitation.

In short, most of the Vietnamese have little knowledge or experience in democratic government. And the agitators don't seem to understand what stability of government in the midst of war means.

They overturned the civilian rule of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a dictator. Military officers who seized power later were thrown out. Now the agitators are after Ky. They want a civilian government.

But it could hardly be a truly representative government since most of the countryside is in the hands of the Viet Cong. And President Johnson had shown confidence in Ky by meeting with him in Honolulu earlier this year.

In the midst of it all there is a growing undertone of anti-

Americanism in a land which Americans are dying to defend. If enough chaos develops, it is not inconceivable that Americans would be asked to leave.

This not only would be one of the most shattering embarrassments in American history but badly damage its influence in Asia and elsewhere. And worse than that would surely follow.

Chaos and political conflict, particularly civil war among the South Vietnamese, would almost certainly wind up in a Communist takeover since even an organized South Vietnamese government, without American help, could not last.

Ky shows signs of getting tough with his enemies. It would seem to be in the interest of the United States to back him up. And Sunday night Secretary of State Dean Rusk optimistically said Ky's downfall doesn't seem likely.

Even if Ky does survive for the rest of the war, and if the U.S. forces end it by crushing the Viet Cong or forcing them to ask for peace, this is not the end of the story.

What happens after the war, whether it's Ky's government or some civilian government in control?

The South Vietnamese, most of them, have shown so much indifference to government, and the hard-core agitators have shown such distaste for one government after another, it's hard to see how any government can last long.

What, then, does the United States do? Keep forces in South Viet Nam after the war to be sure it doesn't collapse into anarchy, making it easy pickings for the Communists?

Almost certainly it will have to keep some forces there and help the South Vietnamese economically and in other ways.

Playwright Crouse Dies At Age 73

NEW YORK (AP) — Russell Crouse always was in the theater on opening night to send telegrams on the progress of their show to his writing partner, Howard Lindsay, at home.

The telegrams, filled with wit, often would come at 15-minute intervals to cheer up Lindsay, who feared watching the reaction of the first-night audience.

The telegrams mostly brought word of a box-office success because Lindsay and Crouse were Broadway's most famous show-writing team for 32 years.

Their partnership ended Sunday with the death of Crouse. He was 73. He died in St. Luke's Hospital of pneumonia and complications.

The one exception to Crouse's telegrams was "Life With Father," because Lindsay played the lead role of the father. Lindsay's wife, Dorothy Stickney, was the mother.

Lindsay was traveling in the South when told of his partner's death and made plans to return to the city.

The pair brought admiration and joy to millions of theatergoers from the time they first united their writing talents in 1934 with "Anything Goes" until their last show, the 1959 hit musical "Sound of Music."

Lindsay and Crouse collaborated on 14 shows and seven of them could be classed solid hits. They won the Pulitzer Prize in 1946 for "State of the Union," but "Life With Father" must be considered their biggest success. It ran on Broadway for more than seven years.

Other top shows were: "Red, Hot and Blue," in 1936, "Arsenic and Old Lace" in 1940, and "Call Me Madam" in 1950.

Grandeur of Wilderness Is Revealed to Lady Bird

(AP) — Suntanned from a Rio Grande raft ride, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson ended a weekend in the Big Bend country today expressing delight at its spectacular wilderness grandeur.

The President's wife went Western in blue jeans, checkered shirts and sneakers amid the rugged peaks of the Chisos (ghot) Mountain on the Texas-Mexican border.

Everything from the dramatic lighting effects to the tenacity of life here — "things growing in a cupful of soil" — intrigued her.

Though she brought along a press party of 70, Mrs. Johnson was struck mainly by the vast solitude and how quickly "you are able to get this completely out into the wilderness."

Her stay in the 708,000-acre Big Bend National Park was rugged and colorful fun.

The 53-year-old First Lady took in gay stride a mile and a half hike up Lost Mine Trail. She sang along at a moonlight campfire and listened to the tales of the Old West.

She was unperturbed by a sudden dust storm that climaxed a riverside steak fry. She even helped paddle and dangled her feet in the cold water on an 11-mile Rio Grande float trip in a big yellow life raft through Mariscal Canyon, with its towering limestone cliffs 1,500 feet high.

The Palm Sunday raft ride was the highlight of the visit. It took up most of the day — after a flapjack outdoor breakfast and a 5-minute special Palm Sunday church service conducted by the park chaplain, just for the White House travelers.

The First Lady led a flotilla of 24 rafts on a 5½ hour ride, skirting rocks, splashing rapids and maneuvering tricky turns.

Park rangers were the guides, jumping into the water to get the life rafts over the tough spots. Everybody helped with the paddling, including Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Stewart Udall, the traveling White House doctor, Navy Capt. James Young, and Secret Service agents. Mrs. Johnson took a turn for 25 minutes.

There were frequent doublings from river water. A few had unexpected spills into the river. But no one minded these cooling applications in the 90-degree heat, with no place to hide from the sweltering sun. Mrs. Johnson kept applying protective layers of suntan lotion.

Afterwards, she told reporters she was reminded how very pleasant simple things can be — "a vagrant breeze, a drink of water, just the feeling that you have enough strength to cope with paddling a canoe — to get out in the open and to come to terms with things."

Monticello Student To Sing with Choir

A Circleville student attending classes at Monticello College in Godfrey, Ill., will participate in a special choral program Thursday with the college choir.

Academy Award Designer To Select Proper Fashions

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Picture a combination baseball commissioner, U.N. truce mediator and chief of protocol for the State Department.

That gives you a notion of Edith Head's job as fashion coordinator for the 38th Motion Picture Academy Awards, which will be dispensed two weeks from tonight.

Miss Head is up to the task. Herself a seven-time winner of Oscars, she has designed gowns for many of Hollywood's most glamorous and temperamental stars. She described her duties:

"I've got to find out who wears what. It didn't matter so much when the television show was in black-and-white. But this year it is being shown in color for the first time.

"Supposing a number of the actresses decide to come in pink this year. Then we might end up with a chorus of pink on the stage, and everyone will get upset.

"The style of the dresses doesn't matter. They can come in granny gowns, for all I care. But I am trying to find out color, so I can be sure of no embarrassing moments."

The chance to appear in living color has sparked greater participation by the glamour girls, Miss Head reported.

"Some have been reluctant to be telecast in black-and-white, which can do strange things to certain colors," she said.

"But color allows them to look their best, and they prepare themselves with care. After all, this is the only time when they appear as themselves. On the movie screen, they may be overdressed or poorly dressed, as the role calls for.

The designer maintains a "crash crew" backstage to repair broken heels, slit unworkable skirts adjust necklines, if needed.

"But so far we haven't had to plug up any décolletage," she said.

Elaine Esposito Has Spent 25 Years of Life in Coma

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Thirty-one-year-old Elaine Esposito has set a world record. But it is a record of human tragedy.

For the past 25 years she has been in a coma — the longest period of human unconsciousness known to medical science. Her case is listed in the Guinness Book of World Records published in London.

On August 6, 1941 the 6-year-old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Esposito was given anesthesia during surgery for a ruptured appendix. She never regained consciousness, and since has alternated between deep sleep and open-eyed unawareness of the world about her.

Elaine knows neither her mother nor father, himself now the victim of a heart condition. Medical opinion has been divided as to whether the child had incipient encephalitis at the time of the appendectomy or whether oxygen to the brain was insufficient while she was on the operating table.

Surgeons were closing the incision when their patient went into convulsions and her temperature soared to 107.

"At first the doctors told us Elaine wouldn't live through the night. I waited for her to open her eyes and speak to me. But she never did," Mrs. Esposito recalled as she adjusted the coverlet around the shoulders of her dark-haired, dark-eyed daughter whose last words had been, "Mommy, I'm not afraid. Don't worry."

The tenacity with which the young woman has clung to life has baffled medical science. Attending physicians attribute the fact that she is still alive to the meticulous and devoted nursing she receives from her mother.

In a pink hospital bed topped with blue bows, she is kept as immaculate as a baby. Four times a day she is fed eight ounces of special formula through a nasal tube. Medication is also administered through the tube.

The Espositos have been told over and over by specialists that there is no hope for Elaine that she can never recover from such extensive brain damage and can never be normal.

"But I always hoped they were wrong," said the mother who has nursed her daughter through other serious illnesses. "Two years after the appendectomy she had further major abdominal surgery and was given a 1000-to-one chance of pulling through. She has survived several bouts of pneumonia and an attack of measles."

About 16 years ago, the girl's right lung collapsed and doctors said that a lower rib growing to the hip bone is causing her body to curve as she grows. Although she has gained a few pounds and added a few inches since childhood — she now weighs 85 — her hands and feet are still those of a 6-year-old.

When the Espositos realized that medical science could offer them no hope, they made a last desperate effort to rescue their daughter from her living death.

In 1956 they took her to the Grotto at Lourdes in southern France in search of a miracle.

Today, their lives absorbed by the unrelenting figure in the pink bed with the blue bows, they are still waiting for the miracle.

Oil companies are seeking to develop low-cost food from petroleum. Germany made fats from petroleum during World War II to feed forced labor groups, but they were neither safe nor tasty. Now oil producers are hopeful that petroleum can be turned into agreeable food to alleviate the world's protein shortage.

Holtzoff also scheduled court hearings today on the basic fight — the elimination of about 18,000 firemen's jobs the past two years under a federal arbitration award that expired at 12:01 a.m. last Thursday when the strike began.

Congress, in its first compulsory arbitration law in U.S. peacetime history, did not say what would happen when the arbitration ruling expired. The union contends it can demand that all jobs be restored, while the approximately 200 railroads involved claim they have the right to keep on slashing jobs.

The firemen won nothing in the strike that cost the railroads an estimated $5 million a day, idled some 200,000 workers on the railroads and other industries dependent on rail supply and lost $320,000 a day in wages to the 8,000 striking firemen alone.

But a union spokesman said it proved the weakened union still was powerful enough to wield the powerful strike weapon and bring the vast railroad industry to a halt.

AT YACHT CLUB — Shauna Humphrey, reigning as Ohio Festivals and Events Queen, received a commission as Rear Admiral in the St. Petersburg Yacht Club during her five-day stay in Florida. Miss Humphrey returned home Sunday after representing Ohio in the St. Petersburg Festival of States. She is seen here with the Commodore of the exclusive club.

Ohio's Ambassador

Miss Humphrey Enjoys Thrilling St. Pete Festival

By RICHARD DAVIS

Shauna Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Humphrey, Route 1, Kingston, returned Sunday from St. Petersburg, Fla., after a five-day stay in the "sunshine state" representing the Buckeye State as Ohio Festivals and Events Queen.

Shauna, along with the remainder of the Roundtown contingent, returned a bit weary, a bit sun-tanned and a bit sorry that the five-day festival is over. She was Ohio's official ambassador at the St. Petersburg Festival of States.

The Ohio Festivals and Events Queen was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ned Harden and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Christopher. Harden is chairman of the Ohio Festivals Queen competition which is held here on the final day of the Pumpkin Show in October.

The exciting stay in Florida for Miss Humphrey, a senior at Logan Elm High School, was filled with glamour. She represented her home state at many public events there as well as at banquets, parades, special events and a Coronation Ball for the new Sun Goddess and Mr. Sun. The latter was attended by Florida Governor Hayden Burn and other dignitaries.

SHAUNA returned to Circleville yesterday laden with gifts and souvenirs from the Festival of States. She received a commission as Rear Admiral of the St. Petersburg Yacht Club; was made a Knight of the Grenadiers, Grenadier Marching Band of Statesville, N.C.; received an honorary citizenship to the city of St. Petersburg from Mayor Herman Goldner; and a souvenir charm bracelet from the Festival of States.

Another of the memorable events for Shauna was her special guest appearance at the Coronation Ball for the new royalty of the St. Petersburg Festival. The renowned band of Les Elgart provided dance music for the ball.

Miss Humphrey left "a little something" in Florida from the Buckeye State. As a goodwill gesture she distributed more than 1,000 buckeyes. One Florida columnist took her buckeye home and gave it to her 4-year-old son who had never "seen nor heard" of a buckeye.

She also presented St. Petersburg Mayor Herman Goldner with a personal gift from Circleville Mayor Ben H. Gordon. Gifts were also distributed to Governor Burn and to the new reigning Sun Goddess Marsha Nan Goheen and Mr. Sun J. E. Bryan compliments of the Ohio Festivals and Events Assn.

During her stay in St. Petersburg, Miss Humphrey was a celebrity. Each of the five days was "feature day" for newspapers, radio and television, with Shauna and the other beauty queens in the spotlight.

Local Delegates Prepare for Girls' State

Three Circleville girls are beginning to prepare for their trip to Buckeye Girls' State scheduled June 18-26 at Capital University.

The delegates are Linda Gallion, niece of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Dearth, 139 York St.; Mary Ann Yates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Yates, 345 Lewis Road; and Ann Spicer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Spicer, 133 E. High St.

Buckeye Girls' State is an Americanism project sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. It was organized at the national convention of the women in 1937. Mrs. Walter Pickel Jr. is the local Americanism chairman.

Its prime objective is to increase the devotion and loyalty of the young women who will be leaders of tomorrow to our American ideals and democratic processes in government. Purpose of the program is to instruct the girls in the operation of government on the city, county and state levels.

ALTERNATES for the program have also been selected in case something would prevent chosen delegates from attending. They are Linda Carney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Carney, 565 Edgewood Drive; Kaye Kline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Kline, Route 2; and Susan Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Knollwood Village.

Qualifications for Girls' State delegates require participants to be a junior or senior high school student, not over 18 years of age and approval by the high school principal or superintendent certifying that she is an outstanding member of her class.

Sponsors of the girls are:

An important 1919 book that did not make the bestseller lists was Robert H. Goddard's "A Method of Reaching Extreme Altitudes," issued by the Smithsonian Institution. Goddard described his rocket experiments, and closed with this prophetic remark: "It remains only to perform certain necessary preliminary experiments before an apparatus can be constructed that will carry recording instruments to any desired altitude."

Elaine Esposito Has Spent 25 Years of Life in Coma

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Thirty-one-year-old Elaine Esposito has set a world record. But it is a record of human tragedy.

For the past 25 years she has been in a coma — the longest period of human unconsciousness known to medical science. Her case is listed in the Guinness Book of World Records published in London.

On August 6, 1941 the 6-year-old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Esposito was given anesthesia during surgery for a ruptured appendix. She never regained consciousness, and since has alternated between deep sleep and open-eyed unawareness of the world about her.

Elaine knows neither her mother nor father, himself now the victim of a heart condition.

Medical opinion has been divided as to whether the child had incipient encephalitis at the time of the appendectomy or whether oxygen to the brain was insufficient while she was on the operating table.

Surgeons were closing the incision when their patient went into convulsions and her temperature soared to 107.

"At first the doctors told us Elaine wouldn't live through the night. I waited for her to open her eyes and speak to me. But she never did," Mrs. Esposito recalled as she adjusted the coverlet around the shoulders of her dark-haired, dark-eyed daughter whose last words had been, "Mommy, I'm not afraid. Don't worry."

The tenacity with which the young woman has clung to life has baffled medical science. Attending physicians attribute the fact that she is still alive to the meticulous and devoted nursing she receives from her mother.

In a pink hospital bed topped with blue bows, she is kept as immaculate as a baby. Four times a day she is fed eight ounces of special formula through a nasal tube. Medication is also administered through the tube.

The Espositos have been told over and over by specialists that there is no hope for Elaine that she can never recover from such extensive brain damage and can never be normal.

"But I always hoped they were wrong," said the mother who has nursed her daughter, through other serious illnesses. Two years after the appendectomy she had further major abdominal surgery and was given a 100-to-one chance of pulling through. She has survived several bouts of pneumonia and at attack of measles.

About 16 years ago the girl's right lung collapsed and doctors said that a lower rib growing to the hip bone is causing her body to curve as she grows. Although she has gained a few pounds and added a few inches since childhood — she now weighs 85 — her hands and feet are still those of a 6-year-old.

When the Espositos realized that medical science could offer them no hope, they made a last desperate effort to rescue their daughter from her living death.

In 1956 they took her to the Grotto at Lourdes in southern France in search of a miracle. Today, their lives absorbed by the unrelenting figure in the pink bed with the blue bows, they are still waiting for the miracle.

Oil companies are seeking to develop low-cost food from petroleum. Germany made fats from petroleum during World War II to feed forced labor groups, but they were neither safe nor tasty. Now oil producers are hopeful that petroleum can be turned into agreeable food to alleviate the world's protein shortage.

Betts, Barnhart Stables Train at Van Camp Track

CHILL WORKOUT — Augusta Barnhart, one of a few lady trainers in central Ohio, works one of the four pacers under her care at George Van Camp's track north of Circleville.

By STEVE JONES

Jack Betts, in addition to assisting George Van Camp with training Bullet Van Virgie's Phone and Miss Caleb Van, is prepping six other horses for the coming campaigns.

Mrs. Augusta Barnhart, one of a very few lady harness horse trainers in central Ohio, is also at Van Camp's track north of town.

An outstanding performer in Betts' stable is Fitz Prim, an 8-year-old pacer with a mark of 2:05 3-5.

A son of Fitzroy and Clara Primrose, Fitz Prim was raced at Northfield and Scioto Downs last year. He is owned by Robert Callihan.

CALLIHAN also owns Typhoon, a 2-year-old by Berry-mite and out of Chaldale Betty.

Marietta Callihan owns Chita Star, a 3-year-old pacer sired by Chita Can and out of the dam, Diana's Last.

For Wayne Burkey of Reynoldsburg, Betts is training Steamin' Creed, a 3-year-old son of the famed Steamin' Demon, whose combined mark of 4:02 in the trot and the pace still stands as the world's record for double gaited performers.

In addition, Betts is training two of his own horses. They are Chet Lynn Tille, a 12-year-old with a mark of 2:07 1-5 and I'm Clever, a 5-year-old green horse.

The former is by Duke Harmony and the latter by Dooney's Clever Ralph.

Mrs. Barnhart has her own Demon Will at the Van Camp track who has a record of 2:08. For Lloyd and James Grabbill of Orient, she is training Regis Way, who has paced the mile in 2:09.

IN ADDITION, James Grabbill owns Royal Adios who has gone the mile in 2:07.

For Charlie Barnhart, she is training Smart Cookie, a 4-year-old green horse.

Mrs. Barnhart does not drive in races.

Betts will leave for Northfield Downs when the season opens there one week before the Pickaway Spring Harness Matinee April 24.

Kansas State has drawn more than 1 1/4 million basketball fans to its home games in the past 15 years and averaged better than 10,000 a game during that period. Kansas holds the Big Eight one-season record of 15,500 per game in 1957.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics, striving to regain lost prestige, and the Los Angeles Lakers, seeking a never attained honor, hold the upper hand in the drive for final berths in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston, dethroned by the Philadelphia 76ers as Eastern Division regular season king for the first time in 10 years, opened the best-of-seven Eastern final series with a 115-96 trouncing of the 76ers at Philadelphia Sunday.

The Lakers, never a playoff champion since moving from Minneapolis, put themselves in a commanding 2-0 lead in the Western final by defeating the St. Louis Hawks 125-116.

Boston, who had to come from behind to win a best-of-five semifinal with Cincinnati, has things much its own way against the 76ers who showed signs of staleness. It was Philadelphia's first game since the regular season ended.

Philadelphia meets the Celtics in Boston Wednesday, while the western series moves to St. Louis for the first time the same night.

Siebert Se^t As Starter For Cleveland

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Sonny Siebert says his index finger is ready for action, which means the righthander can take his place with Sam McDowell as a Cleveland Indians starter.

Siebert, who was sidelined March 17 with the sore finger, took a brief turn Sunday against the Tribe's Portland farm club and threw only 12 pitches.

That's all Tribe Manager Birdie Tebbets wanted. "I wanted more but Birdie told me I'd better not," said Siebert. "He wants to see if it stiffens up again."

Siebert set Portland down in order and left the job to his three relief pitchers, who were tapped for 15 hits.

Reliever Bob Hefner's three-run homer in the fourth inning gave the Tribe a 9-7 victory, their fourth straight. Tom Kelley came in for Siebert and was shelled for six hits and five runs in the fourth inning before Hefner stopped the rally with one pitch.

Ward Witherspoon of Coffeyville, Kan., scored a hole-in-one on the 200-yard No. 4 hole at duplicating a shot by his son, Bruce, 10 months earlier.

Mustangs Sweep Twin Bill with Madison South '9

Westfall High School opened its 1966 baseball season Saturday by sweeping both ends of a double-header with visiting Madison South, winning 6-5 and 10-4.

The first game went eight innings before Rod Stapleton, Westfall first sacker, broke a 5-5 deadlock by hammering a two-base hit with a runner on to drive in the winning tally.

Westfall led, 2-1, at the end of the first inning and 3-1 after two. In the third frame, Madison South came back with one run and then tied the score at 3-3 in the top of the sixth.

The Mustangs went ahead in the bottom of the frame, scoring one run on two hits. But the visitors retaliated in the top of the seventh with a two-run burst to take the lead.

THE MUSTANGS bounced right back in the bottom of the seventh as Roger Clark hammered a triple with a runner on base to knot the score again.

The visitors were shut out in the top of the eighth, setting the stage for Stapleton's game-winning blow.

The winning pitcher was Neil Coleman. He fanned four, walked five and allowed four hits as he went the route.

Stewart started for Madison South. He fanned 11, walked three and allowed nine hits.

Two of the four hits by Madison South in the first game were home runs, one by Stewart and one by Johnson.

In the second game, Madison South got to Westfall hurler Tom Hamman for four runs in the first frame. But the visitors were shut out the remainder of the tilt by the Mustang southpaw.

Ohio Bowling Singles Scratch Lead Knotted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joe Mezaros of Akron rolled 706, tying Paul Gasiewicz of Milan for first place in scratch singles, in the only major change in standings of the Ohio State Men's Bowling Association Tournament over the weekend. Gasiewicz continues as handicap single leader with 782 with five weeks of the nine-week tournament completed.

At Coshocton and Zanesville, the state women's bowling tourney moved through its eighth of 14 weekends without a ripple to disturb the previous leaders.

Second Alabama Footballer Dies

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Jim Wood, a 15-year-old football player at Jerry High School died Sunday night, three days after he collapsed on the practice field.

It was the second death resulting from spring football practice in the Birmingham area. Clifton (Randy) Baker, 15, died of a broken neck suffered at Banks High Feb. 24.

Doctors said Wood apparently suffered a mild concussion during practice last Monday, but showed no symptoms of serious injury and the trouble probably could not have been spotted at the time.

Boat Permits Available at Marion Park

Pickaway County boat owners may obtain their 1966 registrations at the Division of Parks and Recreation office at A. W. Marion State Park.

Paul Sarossy, chief of the Ohio Division of Watercraft, reminded boaters that in order to obtain an original registration, proof of ownership must be presented. If previously registered, the original registration must be presented to obtain the 1966 license.

If a registration has been lost or destroyed, a duplicate may be obtained by writing to the Division of Watercraft, 802 Ohio Departments Building, Columbus. A fee of $1 is charged for each duplicate registration.

Jim O'Toole Looks Good to Reds' Bosses

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Jim O'Toole's new bosses say they think the left-handed pitcher should have a good season this year with the Cincinnati Reds.

"I wasn't here last season," pitching coach Mel Harder said the other day. "But I'm told O'Toole has looked better his two times out this spring than he did at any time last year. He looks mighty good to me."

O'Toole, 29, who had been considered one of the Reds' more reliable hurlers, lost 10 games last year while winning only three. The southpaw has a career record of 89-74 with the Reds.

Manager Donn Hefner — another newcomer — agrees with his coach.

"Jim has more velocity on his fast ball now than he did two years ago when he won 19. He looks ready for another good year," Hefner said.

Packer-Colt Tilt To Open NFL Schedule on Sept. 18

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay's champion Packers and the Baltimore Colts will clash on Sept. 18, opening the expanded National Football League's expanded 1966 schedule it was announced today.

The Saturday night game at Milwaukee kicks off the 47th season for the NFL, which goes from 14 teams to 15 with the addition of Atlanta's Falcons, lengthens its schedule from 14 weeks to 15, and increases its number of games from 98 to 105.

The regular season ends Dec. 18, with the title playoff set for Jan. 1 at the Eastern champion's park.

Pete Rozelle, the league's commissioner, predicts the added team and the new stadium in St. Louis will boost NFL attendance past the 5-million mark. A record 4,364,021 paid to see NFL games last year.

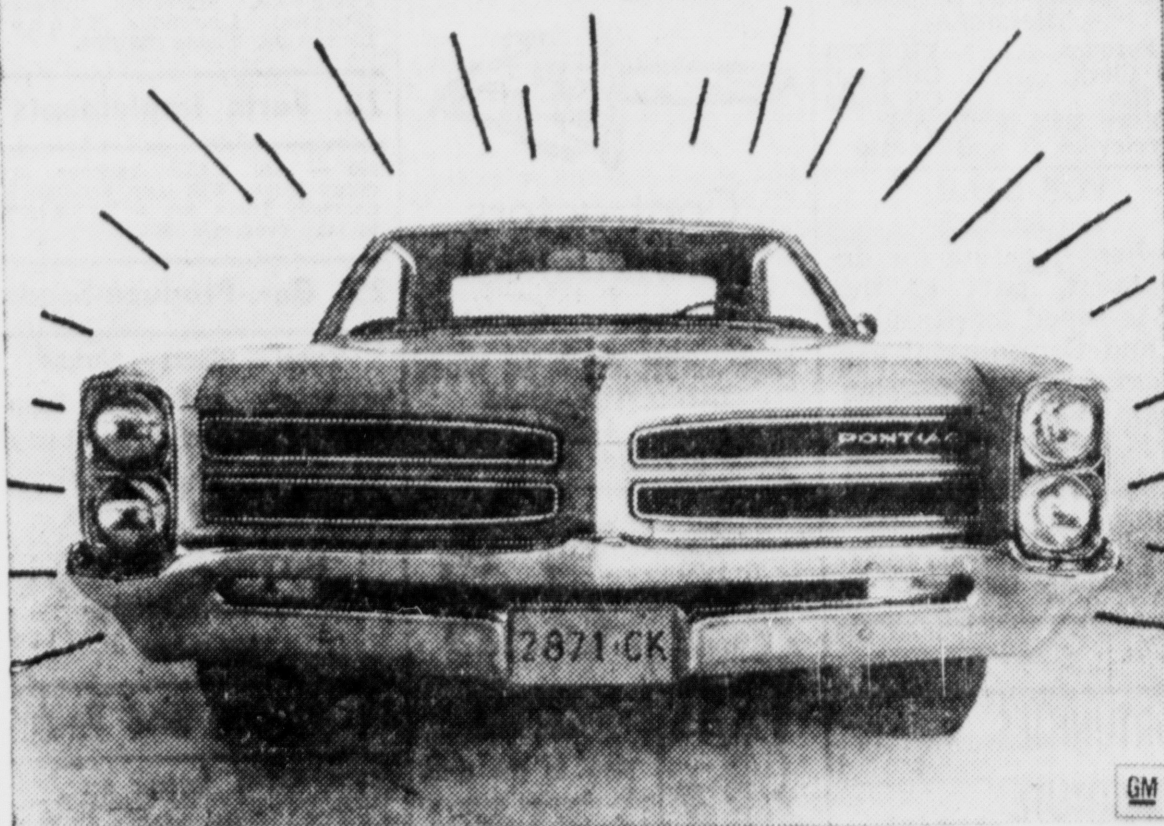

The Green Bay-Baltimore opener, which will be televised nationally by CBS, matches the clubs that tied for first in Western Division in the 1965 regular season. Green Bay won the playoff 11-10 on Don Chandler's field goal in sudden-death overtime, then beat Cleveland 23-12 for the league title. The Falcons will make their debut on Sept. 11, at Atlanta against the Los Angeles Rams. Also on the schedule on the first Sunday are Chicago at Detroit, Cleveland at Washington, Minnesota at San Francisco, New York at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

One team will draw a bye each week, with the first going to Dallas. The Cowboys open the following Sunday, at home against New York, and on the same afternoon the Browns and Packers will play at Cleveland.

Sanders Sets Sights on Masters

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Confidence that is growing with his string of successes, plus an excellent putter, have made Doug Sanders the choice of at least one highly qualified expert to win the Masters Golf Tournament.

"He is going good and has confidence," said Al Besselink and named Sanders as the man most likely to succeed in the Masters, opening Thursday in Augusta, Ga.

Sanders racked up his second straight tournament victory and third of the season Sunday when he dropped in a five-foot putt and beat Tom Weiskopf on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff for the title in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Sanders, 32, from Ojai, Calif., said it would take confidence, stamina and a strong game to win the Masters.

"Needless to say, I have the confidence," he added after picking up his $20,000 check. The triumph followed his victory at Jacksonville, Fla. Earlier this season he won the Bob Hope tourney.

Arnold Palmer's concern was with his game. Arnie closed with a 69, but finished well back at 279.

"I think my game could be good, but it's not right now," Palmer said. "I'm not confident enough with the putter and my wedge play is so bad I don't like to take it out of my bag. I'm going to do a lot of work in the next three days."

Sanders and Weiskopf, 23, of Bedford, Ohio, shot one-under par 70s to finish in a tie with a 72-hole total of 276, eight under par.

Each parred the 15th, where the playoff began. On the par three 225-yard 16th, Weiskopf missed the green chipped in short and missed his putt. Sanders trapped his shot, blasted out and sank it for a par.

Weiskopf picked up $12,000, his biggest check since turning pro in 1964. The total purse was $100,000.

Miller Barber and Dave Ragan tied for third with 277 and won $6,250 each. Barber finished with a six-under par 65, the day's lowest round. He had seven birdies and one bogey. Ragan closed with a 70.

PGA champion Dave Marr, who had a 68, was fourth with 278 and won $4,300.

R. H. Sikes, third round leader, slumped to a 74 and tied Arnold Palmer and Al Geiberger at 279. Defending champion Sam Snead had a 72-hole total of 285. Snead had won the tournament eight times.

Cincinnati Swimmers Bring Home Top Prizes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Led by Valerie Talpin's 26 points, the powerful Cincinnati Marlins won the Ohio AAU Senior Women's swimming championship here over the weekend, and the Marlins age-group boys squad added the laurels in that competition.

In the women's division, the Marlins had 204 points to 121 for the runnerup Glass City YWCA, Toledo. In the boys, the Marlins posted 360 points, second place Cincinnati Coca-Cola 275½.

Mike Garrett, 1965 Heisman trophy winner and halfback at the University of Southern California, signed a pro football contract with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Sox' three-hit shutout of the Astros. Tommie Agee's two-run double highlighted Chicago's four run seventh inning.

Kansas City rocked three Met pitchers for 14 hits and whacked New York. Dick Green belted two home runs and Rollie Sheldon went seven innings for the Athletics.

Tom Tresh, Cleve Boyer and Bobby Richardson all homered and rookie Fritz Peterson worked seven strong innings as the Yankees whipped Philadelphia. New York scored seven runs in the first two innings against Chris Short.

Frank Howard and Don Lock homered for Washington as the Senators overcame a 17-hit Pittsburgh attack that included two homers by Roberto Clemente to beat the Pirates. Matty Alou and Dave Roberts had three hits apiece for the losers.

Minnesota won its sixth straight by scoring two runs in the first inning and then hanging on against the Cardinals. Camilo Pascual, Jim Kaat and Al Worthington split the pitching for the Twins.

The Cubs scored five unearned runs on five California errors and swept past the Angels with Larry Jackson pitching five strong innings.

Tony Conigliaro's eighth homer of the spring powered the Red Sox over the Tigers. George Scott also homered for Boston while George Thomas connected for Detroit.

Relief pitcher Bob Heffner slammed a three-run homer that helped Cleveland overcome Portland. Joe Azcue and Max Alvis had three hits apiece for the Indians.

Sam Owens whacked three hits including a three-run homer and stole two bases as Baltimore whipped its Miami farm club. Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson also homered for the Orioles and Powell had three hits.

Move to Atlanta Gives Braves New Fighting Spirit

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Bragan, manager of the Atlanta Braves, had just been asked to run down his team.

"Well," he said, "we've got nine guys who can hit 20 homers. We've got five starting pitchers. The bullpen is solid. And the bench is good."

Is Bragan confident?
"Yep," he replied. "If we can get Koufax and Drysdale to go back into the movies, and take a couple of pitchers like Marichal and Maloney with them."

And that's the way it is with the Braves. They feel they have the talent to win the pennant, and they certainly feel moving to Atlanta will help. But, in the National League, nothing is ever certain and Bragan wouldn't mind a little help.

Most of it will come from his players with the Braves ready to field veterans at all positions. As a matter of fact it may be difficult for a rookie to break in anywhere.

First there are those nine 20-homer hitters — outfielder Hank Aaron, catcher Joe Torre, third baseman Eddie Mathews, outfielder Felipe Alou, outfielder Mack Jones and catcher-first baseman Gene Oliver, all of whom hit 20 or more last season.

Bragan then adds in first baseman Lee Thomas, acquired from the Boston Red Sox after hitting .271 with 22 homers and 75 runs batted in, and outfielder Rico Carty and shortstop Dennis Menke, who hit the 20-homer mark in 1964.

The only non-qualifier is second baseman Frank Bolling.

Two of the 20-homer hitters — Carty and Oliver — figure to start the season on the bench unless Bragan decides to platoon. Add veteran Frank Thomas and there's little doubt why Bragan smiles about his bench.

Pitching could be the only question-mark with the make-or-buy pitcher likely to be Denny Lemaster, a 17-game winner in 1964 who slipped to 7-13 last season.

Lemaster or Hank Fischer, 8-9 last year, figures as the No. 4 starter behind 24-game winner Tony Cloninger, Ken Johnson and Wade Blasingame. Veteran Arnold Earley, also acquired from Boston, will add strength to the Billy O'Dell-Phi Niekro bullpen combine.

Despite Lemaster's fall last year, the Braves were in the middle of the pennant fight until mid-September — only 2½ games out — when they finally slipped and fell back, finishing fifth, 11 games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But one major factor has to be considered this year besides the wealth of talent: The Braves did not fight. They switched.

The attitude on the club seems to have changed with the move from Milwaukee to Atlanta.

"We certainly would have had a better chance of winning last year if we had played somewhere else," Bragan said. "You don't relish the idea of playing before 5,000 or 6,000 people at home."

The courts willing, the Braves won't have to.

Roseboro Keeps Distance From Marichal

Dodger Gets HR To Help Team Chalk Up Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The last time they tangled, Juan Marichal handled the bat and John Roseboro did the catching. This time Roseboro swung on Marichal.

And there wasn't even a lawsuit afterward.

Roseboro walloped a three-run inside-the-park homer Sunday in his first confrontation with Marichal since the bat-swinging incident last August that left the Los Angeles catcher with a cut scalp and the San Francisco pitcher with a $1,750 fine and an eight-day suspension.

Roseboro's shot helped the Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Giants that was overshadowed by the meeting between him and Marichal.

"He said nothing to me and I said nothing to him," Roseboro said later. "I knew there would be no trouble. The only thing I was worried about was that he would make some kind of overture. If he had, I would have had to turn him down."

San Francisco General Manager Chub Feeney said he had approached Dodger General Manager Buzzy Bavasi before the game with an offer from Marichal to shake with Roseboro. The Dodger catcher declined.

Roseboro said his $110,000 lawsuit against Marichal and the Giants is still pending. "He has kept his distance," Roseboro said, "and that's the way I want it."

There were two men on in the second inning when Roseboro laced a 2-2 Marichal pitch past Giant right fielder Jesus Alou and circled the bases for his home run. He fled out the next time he faced the Giant hurler.

Elsewhere Sunday, Atlanta shaded Cincinnati 2-1 in 11 innings, the Chicago White Sox shut out Houston 6-0, Kansas City walloped the New York Mets 10-2, the New York Yankees whipped Philadelphia 8-3, Washington whacked Pittsburgh 12-3, Minnesota nipped St. Louis 2-1, the Chicago Cubs edged California 8-7 and Boston defeated Detroit 6-4.

Cleveland downed Portland of the Pacific Coast League 9-7 and Baltimore took Miami of the Florida State League 8-5 in other games.

Atlanta snapped a four-game losing streak when Lee Thomas drew a bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning against the Reds. Loser Jack Baldschun had intentionally walked Hank Aaron after yielding singles to Felipe Alou and Ed Mathews. Then Thomas walked, forcing Alou across the plate.
